PROTECT YOURSELF FROM MALARIA.

The distribution of Malaria in Southern Africa is spreading, with certain areas in South Africa identified as a risk area.

PREVENTATIVE MEASURES:

- Inhabitants of high risk areas are advised to take prophylactic medicines from October to May each year (speak to your doctor about the medicines available).

- Inhabitants of high and low risk areas should take preventative measures against Mosquito bites throughout the year including the use of electric Mosquito killers, Mosquito nets, etc.

- When travelling to a mosquito risk area, ensure that you take prophylactic medicines in advance. (Speak to your doctor about the medicines available).

- Holidaymakers are advised to take repellents such as sprays, sticks or lotions, and electric mosquito killers where appropriate, into risk areas as additional preventative measures.

- If you or any member of your family may have been exposed to malaria and display malaria symptoms (including night sweats, nausea, fever) or require additional information about malaria, consult a medical specialist.
